SREE NARAYANA GURU (1856-1928)

Sree Narayana Guru was a prominent social reformer, philosopher, and spiritual leader from Kerala, India. He was born on August 20, 1856, in Chempazhanthy, a village near Thiruvananthapuram, the capital city of Kerala. Sree Narayana Guru belonged to the Ezhava community, which was historically marginalized and faced discrimination in the caste-based social hierarchy prevalent in Kerala during that time. He strongly advocated for social equality, education, and the upliftment of oppressed communities. Sree Narayana Guru emphasized the importance of spiritual enlightenment and individual liberation, irrespective of caste, creed, or gender. He worked tirelessly to eradicate caste-based discrimination and untouchability. He established several temples, schools, and ashrams, which were open to people from all castes, including lower castes. These institutions played a significant role in promoting education, social harmony, and the empowerment of marginalized communities. His teachings emphasized self-reform, self-reliance, and the importance of moral values. He sought to eradicate social evils such as caste discrimination, superstitions, and rituals that perpetuated inequality. His teachings and philosophy continue to have a profound impact on Kerala society and beyond. Sree Narayana Guru passed away on September 20, 1928, but his legacy lives on through his teachings, institutions, and the impact he made in the realm of social reform and spiritual enlightenment. He is revered as a social reformer, philosopher, and spiritual guide by millions of people in Kerala and beyond.

Teachings of Sree Narayana Guru

- "One Caste, One religion, One God for man."
- "Whatever be the religion, it is enough if man becomes virtuous."
- "Ask not, think not and say not caste."
- "Acts that one performs for one's own sake, should also aim at the good of other men."
- "Not to argue and win, but to know and let know"
- "Gain freedom through education."
- "Gain strength through organization."
- "Gain prosperity through industry."
- "Liquor is poison, make it not, sell it not and drink it not."
- "Of one in kind, one in faith, one in God is man, of the same womb, one same form, difference none there is at all."

ETHICS IN AI AND MACHINE LEARNING: ADDRESSING CHALLENGES AND EMERGING FRONTIERS

Abstract

This paper provides an insightful exploration of the ethical landscape surrounding Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML). Beginning with an introduction to AI and ML, the discussion delves into ethical challenges such as bias, fairness, transparency, and privacy. Real-world case studies exemplify solutions and pitfalls in addressing these concerns, emphasizing the need for responsible AI frameworks. Emerging challenges in Autonomous Weapons and Deepfakes are scrutinized, highlighting the imperative role of international agreements and proactive measures. The abstract concludes by emphasizing the crucial balance between technological innovation and ethical considerations in navigating the dynamic realm of AI and ML.

Key words: Artificial Intelligence (AI), Machine Learning (ML), Ethics, Challenges

INTRODUCTION

Artificial intelligence (AI) is a broad field of computer science focused on creating machines or systems that can perform tasks that typically require human intelligence. (Mason, 2003) These tasks include problem-solving, learning, understanding natural language, perception, and decision-making. AI systems can be designed to operate autonomously or with minimal human intervention. (Sarker, 2022)

Machine learning (ML) is a subset of AI that involves the development of algorithms and statistical models that enable computers to improve their performance on a specific task over time (Doshi-Velez and Kim, 2017). Instead of being explicitly programmed to perform a task, a machine learning system learns from data and experiences. It identifies patterns, makes predictions, and adapts its behavior based on feedback.

In short, AI encompasses the broader concept of creating intelligent machines (Rashmi, 2023), while machine learning is a specific approach within AI that focuses on enabling machines to learn and improve from experience. Machine learning is a key technology that contributes to the advancement of artificial intelligence.

The rapid advancements in AI and ML technologies bring forth a myriad of ethical concerns that warrant careful examination. This paper provides an overview of the ethical landscape surrounding AI and ML, highlighting the need for ethical considerations in their development and deployment.

ETHICAL CHALLENGES IN AI AND ML

Ethical challenges encompass situations where individuals or organizations face moral dilemmas or conflicts involving principles of right and wrong. These challenges arise when decisions or actions may have implications for fairness, justice, privacy, transparency, or other ethical considerations (Floridi and Taddeo, 2016). Navigating ethical challenges involves finding a balance between conflicting values and making choices that align with moral principles. It requires thoughtful consideration, adherence to ethical standards, and often involves striking a delicate balance between competing interests to ensure responsible and morally sound outcomes. The swift progress in AI and ML technologies gives rise to numerous ethical issues that demand thorough scrutiny. Some of these issues along with the solution are explained as under:

Bias and Fairness

Bias and fairness in AI and ML pose significant ethical challenges, as algorithms trained on biased data can perpetuate and exacerbate societal inequalities (Diakopoulos, 2016). This issue stems from the inadvertent incorporation of existing biases, leading to discriminatory outcomes, particularly affecting marginalized groups (Mittelstadt et al., 2016).

Solution: Addressing bias and promoting fairness requires a multifaceted approach. First, ensuring diverse and representative training data is essential to mitigate biases at their source. Transparency in the development process, coupled with explainable AI, aids in understanding and addressing algorithmic biases (Barocas and Selbst, 2016). Ongoing monitoring using bias detection tools is crucial to identify and rectify biases in real-time. Ethical guidelines and standards for AI development provide a framework to guide responsible practices, emphasizing the need for fairness considerations at every stage of the AI lifecycle. By implementing these solutions, we can work towards AI and ML systems that not only avoid perpetuating biases but actively contribute to a more equitable and just society.

Below are the real-world case studies where ethical considerations in AI and ML played a crucial role.

Positive Example - Fairness in Facial Recognition: Case: In response to concerns about racial bias in facial recognition systems, IBM took a proactive approach. They publicly announced a commitment to eliminate biases in their AI technologies. IBM initiated efforts to improve the accuracy of facial recognition for individuals across different ethnicities by diversifying the training datasets. This case underscores the importance of acknowledging and rectifying biases to ensure fairness and equity in AI applications.

Negative Example - Biased Hiring Algorithms: Case: Amazon faced criticism when it was revealed that their AI-driven hiring tool exhibited gender bias. The system, trained on resumes submitted over a 10-year period, showed a preference for male candidates. This case emphasizes the ethical challenges in AI systems perpetuating or amplifying societal biases. Amazon ultimately discontinued the tool, highlighting the importance of continuous monitoring and addressing bias in AI applications.

Transparency and Explainability

Transparency and explainability in AI and ML systems pose ethical challenges as many advanced algorithms operate as “black boxes,” making it difficult to understand their decision-making processes. Lack of transparency can lead to a loss of trust, especially when these systems impact critical areas such as healthcare (Gerke et al., 2020), finance, or criminal justice. Users, stakeholders, and those affected by algorithmic decisions may feel uneasy or even disenfranchised when they cannot comprehend how and why a decision was reached.

Solution: To address this challenge, efforts should be directed toward enhancing transparency and explainability in AI and ML models. Implementing mechanisms that allow users to understand the reasoning behind algorithmic decisions promotes trust and accountability. This involves using interpretable models, providing clear documentation of algorithms, and ensuring that decision processes are accessible and understandable to a non-technical audience. Openly communicating the limitations and potential biases of AI systems contributes to informed and ethical use. By prioritizing transparency and explainability, the ethical deployment of AI and ML technologies can be facilitated, fostering trust and acceptance among users and stakeholders.

Below are the real-world case studies where ethical considerations in AI and ML played a crucial role.

Positive Example - Explainability in Healthcare AI: Case: In healthcare, the use of AI algorithms for diagnostic purposes is crucial. IBM’s Watson for Oncology faced scrutiny when it provided treatment recommendations without transparently explaining the underlying reasoning. In response, IBM improved the system’s explainability, enabling healthcare professionals to better understand and trust the AI’s suggestions. This case underscores the necessity of transparent AI decision-making in critical domains like healthcare.

Negative Example - Social Media Manipulation: Case: The use of AI in social media algorithms has raised ethical concerns, particularly in the context of misinformation and manipulation. The Cambridge Analytica scandal revealed how AI-driven algorithms on platforms like Facebook could be exploited to influence political opinions by targeting users with personalized content. This case underscores the need for ethical guidelines to prevent the misuse of AI technologies for malicious purposes.

Privacy and Data Security

In the realm of artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning (ML), the ethical quandary surrounding privacy and data security emerges as a pressing problem (Jobin et al, 2019). The extensive collection and processing of personal information by these technologies, often without explicit user consent, raise concerns about unauthorized access and potential misuse of sensitive data (Stahl, 2021).

Solution: This issue necessitates a comprehensive solution. Firstly, the establishment of robust legal frameworks is imperative to govern the ethical collection, storage, and sharing of personal data, ensuring transparency and empowering users with control over their information (Scarpino, 2022). Concurrently, integrating privacy-preserving techniques into AI and ML algorithms, such as federated learning and differential privacy, offers a viable solution to mitigate the risks associated with data breaches (Taddeo and Floridi, 2018). Ethical considerations must guide the entire lifecycle of AI and ML systems, from development to deployment, striking a delicate balance between technological innovation and the protection of individuals' privacy rights. Responsible AI Frameworks

Below are the real-world case studies where ethical considerations in AI and ML played a crucial role.

Positive Example - Tesla's Approach to Autopilot Safety: Case: Tesla's Autopilot feature, which utilizes AI for autonomous driving, incorporates continuous learning and real-world data to enhance safety. Tesla actively collects data from its vehicles to improve the Autopilot system, prioritizing safety considerations. This case demonstrates the ethical responsibility of companies in the development of AI-driven technologies that have direct implications for public safety.

Negative Example - Uber's Algorithmic Pricing Discrimination: Case: Uber faced accusations of algorithmic pricing discrimination based on user demographics and location. Reports suggested that the ride-hailing platform used AI algorithms to set higher prices in affluent neighborhoods, potentially exploiting users' willingness to pay more. This case highlights the ethical concerns related to transparency, privacy, security and fairness in algorithmic decision-making, particularly in dynamic pricing models.

EMERGING ETHICAL CHALLENGES IN AI AND ML

Autonomous Weapons

Introduction: Autonomous weapons, also known as lethal autonomous weapons systems (LAWS), refer to weaponry that employs artificial intelligence to make critical decisions without direct human intervention (Taddeo and Blanchard, 2022). The integration of AI in weaponry raises significant ethical concerns, necessitating a thorough exploration of its implications (Reddy, 2016). The ethical Implications are as under:

Lack of Human Oversight: The use of AI in autonomous weapons removes the human element from decision-making, leading to concerns about accountability and the potential for unintended consequences (Bächle and Bareis, 2022).

Target Identification and Discrimination: AI-powered systems may struggle with accurate target identification, potentially leading to civilian casualties or violations of international humanitarian law.

Escalation of Warfare: The deployment of autonomous weapons could lead to an escalation of conflicts as nations might be more inclined to use such systems in warfare, considering reduced risk to their own personnel (Dresp-Langley, 2023).

There is a need of regulation of autonomous weapons in terms of:

International Agreements: The international community faces the challenge of establishing comprehensive agreements to regulate the development and deployment of autonomous weapons, similar to existing arms control treaties (Yordan et al., 2022).

Ethical Frameworks: Developing ethical frameworks that prioritize human rights, minimize harm, and prevent the indiscriminate use of AI in warfare (Dean, 2022 and Geneva, 2018).

Ban or Moratorium: Consideration of a temporary ban or moratorium on the development of certain types of autonomous weapons until a robust ethical and legal framework is established (Leys, 2018).

Deepfakes

Deepfakes involve the use of AI and machine learning algorithms to create realistic-looking or voice but entirely fabricated, content—typically images or videos (Johnson and Johnson, 2023). This technology raises ethical concerns related to misinformation, privacy invasion, and the erosion of trust. Actor Val Kilmer lost his distinctive voice to throat cancer in 2015, but Deepfake technology was recently used to allow Kilmer to “speak.” (The actor’s son was brought to tears upon hearing his father’s “voice” again) (Lalla et al., 2022). The ethical Concerns of the above are:

Misinformation and Manipulation: Deepfakes can be used to create convincing fake content that can spread false information, influence public opinion, and even manipulate political discourse (Bizzaccenknect, 2023).

Erosion of Trust: The widespread use of deepfakes can erode public trust in visual media, making it challenging to discern between authentic and manipulated content (Helmus, 2022).

Few mitigation strategies to avoid the risk of deepflakes are:

Detection Algorithms: Development of advanced algorithms to detect deepfake content and prevent its dissemination on various platforms (Nishimura, 2023).

Legislation and Regulation: Implementation of legal frameworks to deter the creation and distribution of malicious deepfakes, with consequences for those found responsible (Dahiya, 2023)

CONCLUSION

In conclusion, the dynamic landscape of Artificial Intelligence (AI) and Machine Learning (ML) brings transformative potential alongside ethical challenges. AI’s broad scope and ML’s specific role intertwine, shaping technological progress. Ethical considerations, including bias, transparency, and privacy, necessitate multifaceted solutions exemplified by real-world cases. Anticipating emerging challenges in Autonomous Weapons and Deepfakes underscores the importance of international agreements and proactive measures. Striking a balance between innovation and ethics is paramount, urging responsible AI frameworks and heightened awareness to navigate the evolving intersection of technology and morality.

Autobiography of a Banyan Tree

In the heart of a bustling Indian village, nestled amidst the cacophony of a human existence, there stood a banyan tree. My life, spanning several centuries has witnessed the rise and fall of civilisation and the passage of time . The stories of countless souls who sought shelter under my verdant canopy.

My story begins many centuries ago, when a tiny sapling broke through the rich soil of this ancient land. As I immersed in Two of world, I was fairly notable. I was a mere speck among the grandeur of nature. Yet, in my fancy, I felt a sense of purpose and I innate desire to thrive and grow.

In my early years, I stretch my branches towards the sky. I was eager to touch the heavens, my roots, delved deep into the earth. They seek sustenance and stability. As I grew my canopy spread wide. It provide respite to the weary travellers who passed beneath me. I was not just a tree but a refugee, a sanctuary for all who sought solace in my shade .

Seasons come and went. I bored witness to my cycles of life. Birds made nest in my branches, generation of squirrels played hide and seek among my leaves. Humans too become an integral part of my life. Their story intertwined with mine. They celebrated festivals and Sought guidance they even carved there initials into my bark to commemorate their love.

The years turn into decades and the decades into centuries, I grew in stature and wisdom, the village around me evolved transferring from a modest settlement into a bustling town. Yet I remained a constant and an enduring symbol of natures resilience amidst the ever changing landscape of human existence.

I stood witness to historical events that shaped the destiny of this land. The British arrived with their colonial ambitions. I observe their struggle of the freedom fighters who gathered beneath my branches. They sought shade and solace as they plotted for independence, the echoes of their dreams and aspiration echoed through my leaves.

However, time is relentless force, the village continue to expand and concrete jungle encroached upon my roots. Pollution choked the air and the once clear stream that nourished me grew polluted . I bore the scars of this transformation. My branches were trimmed to make way for roads and building.

I perserved despite the challenges my roots dug deeper into the earth. They continue to draw sustenance from the ever diminishing green spaces around me. I adapted the changing environment. My leaves serves as a natural filter for the polluted air. I remained of the beauty and resilience of the nature.

Generations passed, and I continued to provide shelter and solace to those in need. Children played beneath my branches. They learn about the wonders of nature, Elders found a peaceful spot to rest and reflect on their stories. They become a part of my ever expanding narrative.

I continue to grow and evolve, but I remain committed to my role in this ecosystem. I am a home to countless creatures. I am a source of inspiration for those who pause to admire my grandeur. moreover, I am a reminder that even in the face of adversity life can flourish, my branches may age and my leaves may wither, but my spirit remains indomitable.

In conclusion, my life as a banyan tree has been a rich tapestry of experiences. I am a living example of beauty of nature and a symbol of hope for generation to come today. I stand here as a living monument to the passage of time. I was rooted in the heart of this village, but now ready to embrace the future with arms.

Poem about my college life

In B.Com classes, numbers and accounts we'd explore,
From balance sheets to financial reports, our knowledge would soar.
Economics and commerce, the subjects we'd delve into,
Learning about markets, trade, and business, feeling brand new.

Study groups and late-night cramming sessions,
Preparing for exams with intense concentration.
Lectures and discussions, expanding our understanding,
In the world of commerce, our minds were expanding.

Internships and projects, real-world application,
Putting theory into practice, gaining valuable education.
Networking events and career fairs, opportunities abound,
Preparing for the future, with determination profound.

But amidst the studies, there were moments of fun,
College festivals and events, laughter under the sun.
Friends made along the way, memories to cherish,
College days in B.Com, an experience we'll never perish.

Topic: Life of a tired housewife

When you think of good it becomes better,
Then why is the life of housewife not sweeter.
Here lives a poor women who was always tired,
She lives in a house were help wasn't hired.
To were there is cooking, washing and sewing,
If she doesn't get little respect what shall she do
For living.
For everything there is nothing exact of her wishes,
She does everything for cooking to washing of dishes.
Don't you think it's a hard course to do for her ,
She played her role so better,
As a wife mother sister and daughter..

NEVER GIVE UP

If I made a mistake,
then I would have to retake,
and do it once again,
even feel the pain

But there also lays a prize,
and that made me realise that,
Even if I was to fail,
It would be a learning trail,

If I hope for medals and a cup,
I can't just relay on luck,
I must do hard work,
To show the world my worth.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF PEN

The life of pen is a fascinating journey filled with ink stained memories and the rhythmic dance of words on paper. From the moment, I a humble pen was crafted in the hands of skilled artisans, my destiny was intervened with the stories waiting to be written.

My first home was in the hands of student, eager to capture the knowledge flowing from the teacher's words. I glided across notebooks, shaping letters and forming words that would become the foundation of understanding. The scratches of my nib echoed the pursuit of education, as I danced on pages filled with equations, poetry and dreams.

As the years unfolded, I found myself in the bustling world of office and meetings. i became a silent witness to signing of contracts, the jotting down of ideas and the expression of creativity. The weight of responsibility pressed upon me as I moved from one document to another, leaving behind a trail of decision and accomplishment.

In the hands of a writer. I transformed into a tool of imagination. My ink brought the characters into life and worlds created with the stroke of pen. Yet , life of a pen is not without challenges. I weathered the storm of being forget in pockets, abandoned on desk , or replaced by newer models but, as a loyal companion, I persevered waiting for the moment when my purpose would be rediscovered. The digital world has brought keyboard to intimate connections between pen and paper however, I adapted finding my place in a world which cherishes art , a nostalgic reminder of simple times.

In the end, my life as pen is a testament to the enduring power of written words. Whether in classrooms, Boardrooms or quiet corners, I continue to play my part in shaping the narratives that define us as individuals.

It's my own experience which is marvelous everytime Butterflies are my stomach, the weather is golden and my sky is purple in color for me. My urge and cravings are never-ending have become everlasting. I am surrounded Some bitterness. Yess, world is darker then you think but for me my journey of teenage life is adventurous and Lovely as me.

A Miracle

"I'm waiting for a miracle..."

I want to hear the chirping of sparrows in the morning, but I hear the sound of the alarm....

I want, in the gentle rain, the sweet smell of clay to enter my soul, but all I see is mud....

I want to rest under the open sky when the body is tired, but I see a room between the four walls....

I want to be blown away by the wind when I run through the streets with my arms outstretched, but I am blown away by cars....

I want to get lost in the moonlight chasing the lights in the late night, but I get lost in the electric lights.....

My heart longs to get lost in a valley of flowers and play with butterflies where only scents reside.

As I write, the lines of words continue, but I hear echoes in the "silences."

"I might be on a quest,

I'm waiting for a miracle."

"Raindrop"

drop of rain is like a sudden knock at the door.
Unexpected, yet often welcomed with a smile. It
Can brighten your day or ruin your plans. It Can make you laugh or make you sad. Whether the raindrop is moving Fast or slow. or is big or small, it always gets everyone's attention. A raindrop contains many secrets. It is a bubble of anticipation and surprise. It cleanses the earth.
It Feeds the Flowers, and Fills the holes.
The
raindrop is never silent. It bangson the roof, spatters on the window or Splashes into a puddle.
A raindrop.

MY FIRST DAY AT THE COLLEGE

I still remember that day,
My First day at the college
I was happy as well as nervous.
Experiencing the place and meeting new friends.

College to me was cheerful,
Maths, physics, chemistry were fearful,
AS I stepped into my class,
I thought I was the greatest fool.

Then I made my self relaxed,
Introduced myself to them all,
Though I was Shy in front of boys,
Somehow I managed them all.

And now in came our miss,
Having a smile on her lips.
We tool our names one by one
She looked extremely happy.

And gave a big applause,
I was a happy little one,
I still remember that day..
My first day at the college.

मुलाकात

क्या कभी खुद से मुलाकात की हैं?
बैठे बैठे कभी खुद से, बात की हैं?

दुनियां जमाने के बीच, कभी खुद से बातें की हैं?
क्या तुमने खुद से मुलाकात की हैं?

ना जाने किस असमंजस में फसे हो
क्या कभी खुदकीपहचान की हैं?"
क्या कभी अपनेआप से मुलाकात की हैं?

ये दोगाला जमाना , तुम्हे तुमसे मिलाएँगा
तुम क्या हो, तुम्हें ये बतायगा
तुम्हारी पहचान तुमसे कराएँगा!

तुम्हारी नजरे दूसरों को ढूँँदें ।।
क्या तुमने अपनी नजरो से बात की हैं?
क्या तुमने खुद से मुलाकात की है?

जिस लहजे से, तुमने दूसरो से बात की है।।
क्या कभी उस लहजे मे खुद से मुलाकात की हैं?

क्या कभी खुद से अजनबियों की तरह बात की हैं।
क्या तुमने कभी खुद से, मुलाकात की है?!!

क्या तुमने कभी आईने के सामने अपनी पहचान की हैं?
क्या तुमने कभी खुद से "मुलाकात की हैं ?

लोग तुम्हे कहेंगे तुम पागल हो
क्या तुमने कभी शायरो की तरह
शायरी में बात की हैं:
क्या तुमने कभी खुद से मुलाकात की हैं?

कामयाबी

कदमों में जान रख, आज गिरा है
कल जरूर उठ जाएगा।
मुसीबतों को देख कर, तू लड़खड़ा जाएगा
तूफानों के सामने
बार-बार तू खुद को गिरता देख, तेरा विश्वास
खोता जाएगा।
उम्मीद का सफर है तेरा, तेरी हिम्मत से ही
तू जीत जाएगा।
जब सुबह होगी तेरे जीवन की, तुझे अकेला- पन सताएगा।
सफल का मंत्र पूछेगी सारी दुनिया, तेरा जवाब यही आएगा।
बहुत दूर आ चुका होगा तू सारी दुनिया से, तब तुझे
तेरे आँखों के सामने तेरे मंजिल नजर आएगी।
कामयाबी उन्हीं को हासिल होती है जिनके
हौसलों में जान होती है पंखों से कुछ नहीं होता
हौसलो से उड़ान होती है।

गुरु

गुरु बिना ज्ञान कहाँ ,
 उनके ज्ञान का आदि न अंत यहाँ ।
 गुरुने दी शिक्षा जहाँ ,
 उठी शिष्टाचार की मूरत वहाँ ।
 अपने संसार से तुम्हारा परिचय कराया ,
 उन्होंने तुम्हे भले-बुरे का आभास कराया ।
 अथाह संसार में तुम्हें अस्तित्व दिलाया,
 दोष निकालकर सुदृढ़ बनाया ।
 अपनी शिक्षा के तेज से ,
 तुम्हे आभा मंडित कर दिया ।
 अपने घ्यान के वेग से ,
 तुम्हारे उपवन को पुष्पित कर दिया ।
 जिसने बनाया तुम्हे ईश्वर ,
 गुरु का करो सदा आदर ।
 जिसमे स्वयं है परमेश्वर ,
 उस गुरु को मेरा सादर प्रणाम ।

 कोई बेबस ना होता , कोई बेघर ना होता
 किसी के दर्द से कोई बेखबर ना होता ,
 ना ही गीता होती , और ना कुरआन होती ,
 ना ही अल्लाह होता , ना भगवान होता
 तुझको जो ज़ख़्म होता , मेरा दिल तड़पता ,
 ना मैं हिंदू होता , ना तू भी मुसलमान होता
 तू भी इंसान होता , मैं भी इंसान होता ।

दोस्तों की कीमत

एक बार की बात है, एक गांव में एक बुढ़िया रहती थी। वह बहुत ही दयालु और सद्बुद्धि थी। एक दिन, उसने एक मुर्गे को पालना शुरू किया। वह मुर्गा बहुत ही सुंदर और बड़ा हो गया।

एक दिन, बुढ़िया अपने मुर्गे के साथ बाजार गई। वहां पर एक व्यापारी ने उसे देखा और उसे बहुत ही खूबसूरत मुर्गा बताया। व्यापारी ने उसे बहुत अच्छे दामों पर खरीदने की पेशकश की।

बुढ़िया ने व्यापारी से कहा, "मुझे यह मुर्गा बहुत पसंद है, लेकिन मैं उसे बेचना नहीं चाहती। क्योंकि यह मेरा अच्छा दोस्त है।"

व्यापारी ने उसकी सोच को सराहा और उसे उसी दव्यापारी ने उसकी सोच को सराहा और उसे उसी दोस्ती के साथ वापस जाने की अनुमति दी। बुढ़िया और मुर्गा खुशी-खुशी घर लौट आए। इस कहानी का मोरल है कि अच्छे दोस्तों की कीमत कोई भी माल नहीं खरीद सकता है।
